DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 16-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claims 16 – 30 are directed to an application of an abstract idea, law of nature or natural phenomenon.

For claims including such excluded subject matter to be eligible, the claims must be for a practical application of the abstract idea, law of nature or natural phenomenon. Diehr, 450 U.S. at 187, 209 USPQ at 8 (“application of a law of nature or mathematical formula to a known structure or process may well be deserving of patent protection.”); Benson, 409 U.S. at 71, 175 USPQ at 676 (rejecting formula claim because it “has no substantial practical application”).

To satisfy section 101 requirements, the claim must be for a practical application of the paragraph 101 judicial exception, which can be identified in various ways:

The claimed invention “transforms” an article or physical object to a different state or thing.

The claimed invention otherwise produces a useful, concrete and tangible result.

The steps set forth by claims 16-30 recite data gathering and the subsequent mathematical processing of the gathered data and, as such, do not transform an article or physical object to a different state or thing.

Art Unit: 3663

Claims 16-30 have no positive recitation of a useful, concrete or tangible result of the processing of the derived data.

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement filed 09/02/2004 fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(2), which requires a legible copy of each cited foreign patent document; each non-patent literature publication or that portion which caused it to be listed; and all other information or that portion which caused it to be listed. It has been placed in the application file, but the information referred to therein has not been considered.

In the present application the copies of DE 196 39 424 and DE 100 15 114 have not been provided.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 27 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The term CARTRONIC is a trademark and, as such, does not have exact meaning in the art.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 16-24 and 28-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pena-Nieves et al.

Pena-Nieves et al disclose a computer based system for determining the defect rate in manufactured systems that includes recording reliability data, making unreliability plots from the data, obtaining Weibull distribution parameters in order to allow the user to identify changes that could affect the reliability of the product produced.

The operation of the system above broadly reads on the method steps disclosed by claims 16-24 and 28-30.

The difference between Pena-Nieves et al and the claims under rejection is the use of the system to determine the errors in the safety systems of an automobile.

As it is well known that automobile safety systems are a mass manufactured product, it would have been obvious to have used the system of Pena-Nieves et al for quality control.
